Crops Suffering for Lack of Moisture

Rain is urgently needed in the district. Many stands of wheat which looked in good condition a week ago are showing the effects of the subsequent hot weather. Some of the earlier sown crops have suffered to such an extent that they are considered only good for feed, even with further moisture. One farmer north of town is cutting his crop for feed, and others are contemplating following his example.

Given a good rain within the next few days, however, there are many fields which will give satisfactory yields.

July precipitation to date, (received during the first 3 days of the month) amounted to 1.02 inch.

Parasite Attacking Grasshoppers

The grasshoppers are still with us, but reports keep coming in to the effect that they do not seem to be doing much damage now. The movement of poison bait from the mixing station has not been heavy this week. It is reported that parasites are now attacking the hoppers and with this ally coming to the aid of the farmer, hope is entertained that the worst is over.

Mr. Milligan of the department of agriculture, issues a warning to farmers who have been poisoning their land heavily this summer, to harrow the remains of the poison mixture well into the ground, as a protective measure, to prevent stock picking it up after the crop is removed. Heavy rains could wash the poison into sloughs, where it might become a menace to stock. Harrowing the bait into the ground would largely offset this possibility.

Marketing Conference

Arrangements are being completed for the marketing conference and co operative institute to be held at Olds school of agriculture, July 24, 25 and 26. It is expected that such eminent authorities as Hon. H. H. Stevens, federal minister of trade and commerce; Dr. J. E. Booth, commissioner agricultural economics, Ottawa; John I. McFarland, Canadian wheat pool, and others, will be present to discuss problems, as well as representatives of various co-operative interests in the province. Hon. F. S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture, will preside.
